

I Found A Baby Mammal What should I do now?

Is the baby mammal injured or sick?

(bleeding, shivering, vomiting, covered in ants, attacked by a cat or dog)

If you find a fawn:
Mother deer leave their fawns for 12 - 14 hours each day, only returning at dawn and dusk to feed them. If you find a fawn and she or she is not crying or injured, leave the fawn there and check back in 24 - 48 hours. If he or she is still there, is crying out, or is injured contact WRR's 24-hr hotline at 830-336-2725 right away.
Do not give the fawn anything to eat or drink.

A baby's best chance for survival is with his or her mother in the wild.

NOTE: Human scent left on the baby will NOT keep the mother from taking back her baby.
